Test

Status

The android user likes a dog, then requests a date with said dog for a specific date. Then the web user logs in and can see that date request on their requests page.

Good

The web user/shelter can see the information about the dog, the dater's user profile, and the reason for the date if given.

Good

If a shelter rejects a request, the dater user can see the response from the android side as denied including the explanation of the denial.

Good

If a shelter accepts a request, the dater user can see the response from the android side as accepted.

Good

If a shelter returns a request to pending status, the dater user can see the status has changed to request pending on the android app.
